Japanimation

Well here we are in a different world of media. Cartoons and comics. This month it is about JAPANIMATION.

Well the comics are alot better then the movies because the books inform the reader on what is going on . While the movies leave big chunks of story, plot, and major pieces of information on the cast out. The comics have better story lines.

One of the best stories I've ever come across is 'ALITA (THE BATTLE ANGEL)'. It deals in a doctor named Ido. Ido is looking for his lost creation ALITA. As he wonders Ido befriends a not so smart girl named Shumira. Ido asked Shumira if she ever saw a girl named ALITA. Shumira seen the girl in a death sport for cyberenhanced humans called motorball. As Ido trie to get ALITA back. ALITA tries to leave her past behind and become the best in motorball.

Well, here we are, I have all these ideas in my head.
I just can't express things on paper. For instance, why does everybody have to be categorized? It's always necessary for people to say 'Oh this person is a RAVER' or an alternative freak, gangbanger, or any thing like that. We can't just say 'Oh he's a person.' That is all we are, human beings.
Everybody talks about how this world would be a better place if we all could realize that, maybe we should stop just talking about it and believe in it. Oh well, I'm not going to change it any time soon because I have a hard time avoiding stereotypes too. I'll stop boring you all and say FUCK IT!!!!!!

With all due respect to Guenevere

A while back Guen suggested we steal a baby so we could poke it and it would make cute noises. When questioned about the parents being worried Guen said it was perfect because if the parents had an unstable marriage this crisis would bring them closer together. When the child was returned it would be loved more than it was before. We would also be saving the parents money (A baby cost alot of money!). We would just would be insuring a happier childhood. So this is a morally sound reason to babysit your neighbors kid and move to... oh say...Idaho (This reason might not stand up in court though)

It's 5:23 a.m. and I just finished talking to Qwerty my pet Mountain Dew bottle. She said she was feeling empty so I told her to take lots of drugs(the solution for all my problems) I'm laying on the floor because my couches are dancing but the fun will stop when they do because then my neighbor will be able to sleep. I have to pee so bad I haven't peed in two days I just E'ed instead. The toilet exploded in a big nuclear flameball with smiling cheese and mountain dew goats with clouds for faces that landed everywhere. that happened 3 months ago. I haven't been sober in three years. It's great!! I've never been so happy (except when my dealer overdosed at my house) Y'know what they say a sheet a day keeps the reality away! I'll bet you didn't know that parks are the places where all criminal ciggarettes are sent. Oh Shit! I forgot to memorize the phone book today. My cd is skipping as the tapes are playing hopskotch (they can't skip) oh boy, I think it's time to die!!!!

This first issuance of FFWD is just a sample of what you will find in issue 1.1, which is due out in two weeks. Since a majority of the recipients of this mini-issue will live in Wisconsin, you will be less likely to receive issue 1.1 than a Chicago raver. So if interested you can send us one dollar and we will mail it to you: if you send us three we will include one of three compilation tapes
